Entertainment of Spanish Dignitaries Sharply Curtailed by National Tragedy

Through the past many weeks, Carmel, particularly our Mayor Eben Whittlesey and his family, had been planning a festival week-end. Nov. 22, 23 and 24 were to be devoted to the celebration of the 250th anniversary of the birth of Carmel's spiritual founder, Fr. Junipero Serra. Invited by the mayor to join us were high dignitaries of the island of Mallorca, Fr. Serra's birthplace, also United States officialdom, the clergy and hundreds of friends.

Our city council was consulted concerning the official reception. The solemn high mass (missa cantata) at the Mission San Carlos Borromeo, pinnacle of Serra's Mission Trail, where he lived, died and is buried, was arranged for by the Rev. Father Roger J. Dieu Donne, rector; the sermon to be preached in Spanish by Rev. Juan M. Oronoz.

Festive entertainment, luncheons, cocktail parties and peninsula tours were the gay plans of Mrs. Whittlesey and her committee that included Mrs. Hans von Richter, Mrs. Shelbourne Robison, Mrs. Nelson Miles Leoni, Mrs. John E. Brock, and Mrs. Edwin Bliss.

Climaxing the social program for the visitors was to be the black tie dinner at Del Monte Lodge, given by the Carmel Rotary Club, with Richard Catlin acting as host to 150 guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Hank Fonseca, who insisted that the visitors from Spain be their personal guests in the Jade Tree Inn, turned their rooms into bowers of flowers.

Carmel hospitality, at its happy best, was to make the occasion an expression of friendship long to be remembered.

Then came the crushing tragedy of Friday noon, when the heavens wept.

Saturday morning there was an official reception for our city's guests, with Mayor Whittlesey presiding, and every member of the Council present. There were warmly understanding smiles as the Mayor addressed his old friends from Mallorca in their native tongue, with a tentative pause now and then.

Charming, starry-eyed Deborah Whittlesey, daughter of Mayor and Mrs. Whittlesey, appeared in the exquisite costume of a princess. It had been presented to her in Mallorca when, as official visitors to Petra (Carmel's sister city), and Palma last spring, the Whittleseys had made lifelong friends of the officials gathered together in our City Hall Council Chambers.

As she presented gifts to each visitor, Deborah was, in continental fashion, kissed on either cheek. The gifts were Carmel originals, the unique art of Carmel craftsmen.

The mayors of Petra and Palma, their wives and other officials responded with smiles and warmth to the greetings and gifts, and in turn presented our mayor and the city with a magnificently framed document of enduring friendship, from the city of Petra.

As the party left city hall, happily the sun broke through the grey clouds, and the tour of the Mission, conducted by the Mission's curator and restorer, Harry Downie, was beautiful and rewarding.

Dazed and sorrowful by our national tragedy, the visitors accepted with sincerest understanding the curtailment of the social program planned for them. There were small gatherings

There are no words that this paper could possibly print which could ever in any way assuage the grief of the world on the great loss it has suffered.

John Fitzgerald Kennedy was, as was shockingly demonstrated last Friday morning, a mortal. No matter how remote he had formerly seemed, and regardless of how much one had disagreed with his philosophy, his loss was a personal tragedy to every person on this earth.

As the television screen followed the sad procession last Monday, it played across the somber faces of the leaders of virtually every nation on earth, brought together in their common grief. What greater evidence could we have of the universality of man?

Perhaps on this Thanksgiving Day, nearly a week after the tragic acts which occurred in Dallas, we may assert a silent gratitude that the insane act of that deranged little man in Texas has at least made clear to a world formerly occupied with hydrogen bombs and anticipation of global warfare, that all men on this earth are indeed brothers.

There is hope for mankind if we will recognize this simple fact.

To J. F. K.

Dear John, Dear John,
I cannot think you gone
While we of lesser magnitude
Are left to carry on.
No braver heart, no stronger hand
Held high the beacon of our land,
Stood staunch for justice, struck the key
To herald world-wide liberty.

This day, your name on foreign tongue
Reverberates your work begun;
And if your loss is freedom's gain,
Your martyrdom was not in vain.

Kiwanis Honor The Old Army Mule

Corn-beef and cabbage, applauded by all and finished to the last delicious morsel, was the luncheon served Carmel Kiwanians at their last Thursday luncheon in the Hatton Fields home of Col. George Baxter. Assistant cooks were Fire Chief Bob Smith and Ben Updike.

The surprise guest of the day was a delighted and frisky army mule whom the boys claimed to be a long lost friend of the Colonel.

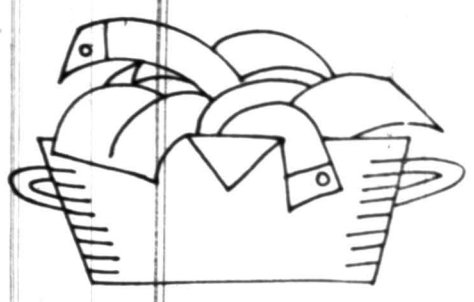
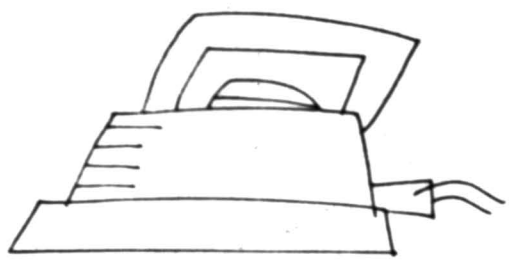
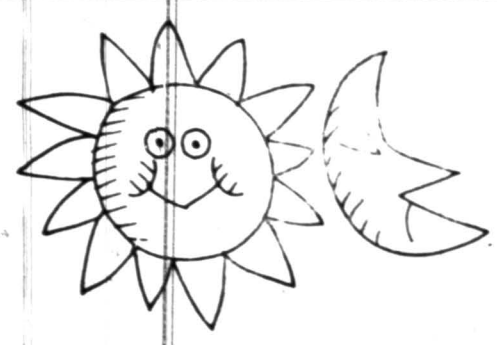
Six reasons why you'll waltz through washday with an automatic dryer:



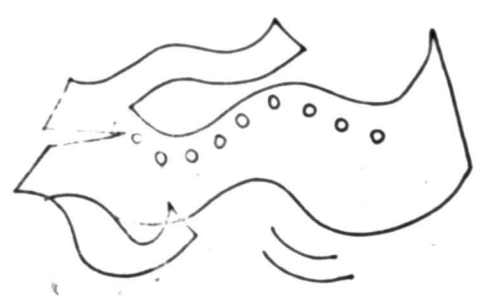
You won't have to lift and lug those back-breaking baskets of wet wash any more. (The average homemaker carries about two tons of wet wash to the line each year.)



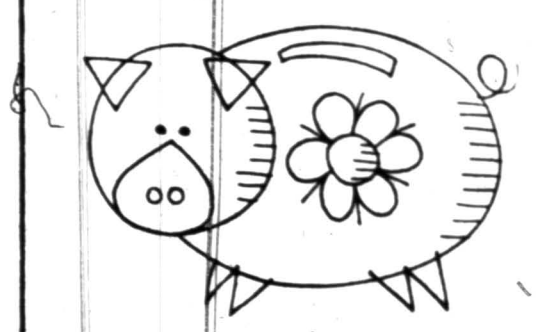
Ironing is easier. New damp-dry settings make clothes come out just right for ironing. And some fabrics come out so wrinkle-free, they need no ironing at all.



You'll be able to dry your wash at any hour of the day or night. And don't forget the weather! Or rather, do forget it. With a dryer, any day is wash day.



Laundry comes out soft, fluffy . . . looks and feels good. And a dryer's ultra-violet light gives your clothes the sweet smell of summer sunshine all year long.



You'll save money on clothing—especially for "small-fry." Clothing lasts longer, and fewer clothes and linens are needed when you can wash and dry any time.

You'll feel so much fresher at the end of the day. And think of the extra time you'll be able to spend with your family—instead of with your clothesline.

Where There's Life...

By Andre Hope

The day of "Let Us Be Thankful" is upon us. Due to recent events a feeling of "for what" is bound to occur. Well, for a couple of large things and a plethora of minor matters, give thanks. We've been feeling a little shaky about our position in the world today — and from time to time have questioned the lucidity and humaneness of people on the other side of the language barrier. Can we not be thankful now to discover that in extremity honest tragedy breaks down the damn, leashs the demons and releases the flood of compassion. Thankful, too, we can be for our Constitution (which is generally mentioned only during the Fourth of July, in Civics classes and during political campaigns) which insures the smooth flow of our day of life and prevents, in times such as this, an alien or antagonistic foot firmly planted in the opened door of our democratic republic or republican democracy —however you see it.

As for the small "thanks," mine as yours are strictly personal. I thank kind readers who write me comforting letters; Adele Brambt (or Bramlet) of Carmel, for instance. She agrees with me! And don't we always favor those clever perceptive, understanding people who agree with us? She believes in the old-fashioned holiday seasis unashamedly sentimental and sounds as warm and gay as a pan filled with ginger bread men. She concluded her letter with this thought — "Merry Christmas to you and to all the others who have made the great discovery and find joy, happiness and contentment in the simple things we do for others in the great holiday season."

A sort of off-handed (or left-handed thanks) goes to the fact that I have not for the moment an invalid right hand—not so bad that I cannot cook Thanksgiving dinner, but clumsy enough so that I cannot knife and fork it up too much. I'll probably save a few hundred calories right there!

Thanks to Shreve's in San Francisco, a highly elegant establishment which deals in diamonds, sapphires, rubies, pearls, jade, silver, gold patinum, crystal and China—which has also displayed the works of our Peninsula artist, S.C. Yuan—for their magnificent catalogue. Actually, it's a silver and black box crammed with tasteful pictures of the above mentioned, skillfully articulated into jewelry and conversation pieces. The judged worth of this lovely tantilizer comes to well over one million dollars $$$$$$. They really did send it to me and how can you feel so RICH for FREE?

Thanks to Ben Updyke who provides, among other things, my Marilyn Mansfield-type turkey hen. As he is the Shreve's of the sirloins I always give the lady he sends me a necklace of cranberries and grapes; no luxury tax, just nature's jewels.

My thanks for you and yours and mine and ours.

Thank, above and beyond all, God.

Urgent Call for Blood Donors

The bloodmobile will be at the Carmel Red Cross chapter house on Thursday, Dec. 5, from 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

In addition to the request for sufficient donors to supply the local community needs the chapter officials are asking for donors to contribute toward the blood which will be needed within the next few weeks by the brother of Jim Cardwell, one of the Carmel Ambulance Volunteers. The brother, who is to have brain surgery in Los Angeles, will need an estimated 24 units of whole blood. The chapter has already pledged to make any necessary replacements of blood used during or following the surgery.

Any person, in normal good health, between the ages of 21 and 60 years of age may be a blood donor, 18 year olds to 21 may give with parents consent. Call the Carmel Red Cross 624-6921 to make appointments or for information.

Tickets ($1.00 each) are being sold now, donations for the tree. The drawing will be held during the Holly Ball. One need not be present to win. All proceeds will be donated to the Children's Home Society Adoption Agency.

Woman's Club to Present Margaret Woodall

A unique and glittering Christmas program will be given by the Carmel's Women's Club for its members on Monday afternoon when Margaret Woodall, widely known throughout the west for her versatility in her one-woman dramatizations, will present the story of "Raphael, the Herald Angel."

Experience in the legitimate theater, radio and television have abundantly prepared Miss Woodall for her capsule versions of well loved dramas and musicals. Critics have termed her "the actress with a thousand voices" for her lightning transitions in the characteristics and mannerisms of each role. Most publicized have been her presentations of "Private Lives", "The Little Foxes" and "Life With Father."

Following the performance tea will be served. Mrs. Romana C. Gahl, hospitality chairman will be assisted by club members.

Unique Art Showing At San Carlos Hotel

Currently on show in the Hotel San Carlos, Stan Newlin Piano showrooms, are 20 drawings and paintings by William R. Patrick-West.

Of the group, eleven are for sale, ranging in price from $150 to $6,000, and covering a wide range of subjects, they are superb examples of the artist's versatility and varied techniques.

The remaining nine works are from private collections.

Tea will be served on Saturday afternoon to gallery visitors, Miss Trudy Litton, model for Mr. Patrick-West, will pour. The public is cordially invited.

Spanish Dignitaries

in private homes during the balance of Saturday, and the banquet, so enthusiastically planned, was cancelled. The Spanish dignitaries dined at the Del Monte Lodge with our mayor's family and a few close friends.

Sunday's mass at the Mission, during which musician Miss Angie Machado played an anthem by Sr. D. Miguel Ramis Maragues, director of the Junipero Serra Museum in Petra, was attended by Acting Governor and Mrs. Glenn W. Anderson. The anthem was composed especially for the occasion. The Mass was followed by the blessing of the Serra Memorial Plaque presented by Sr. Ramis to the Mission.

The Spanish guests departed late Sunday.

That their visit had been robbed of gaiety was inevitable but, as has often been said of sorrow shared, who can say that the bonds of friendship have not been more deeply, enduringly strengthened.

REVIEWED BY HARRY WELLESLEY FLETCHER

Green Felt Jungle But Lots of Fun

THE GREEN FELT JUNGLE, by Ed Reid and Ovid Demaris, Trident Press, New York, 1963.

The truth about Las Vegas, according to the blurb on the dust jacket, "where organized crime controls gambling—and everything else." Further: this the first book that dares to penetrate the mirage of Las Vegas, the respectable, fun-loving resort where carefree tourists may innocently and legally indulge in gambling. In a carefully documented exposé (which includes some astounding, secretly taped confidential conversations), the authors explore the real Las Vegas—a clever (and profitable) front for organized crime.

"Everything is legal, of course —everything except mysterious, unreported murders, systematic tax evasion, widespread prostitution, tacit segregation, and the graft that greases the entire system.

Why was Bugsy Siegel, the founder of modern Las Vegas, liquidated? Who are some of Frank Sinatra's sinister partners in the Sands Hotel? How large is Jimmy Hoffa's interest in the glittering hotels along the Strip? Guess who some of Barry Goldwater's companions have been on his numerous gambling junkets. And why was the body of a United States Senator who died just before election day preserved in a bathtub full of ice until all the returns were in?"

"Also explained in detail are the tourist's actual chances of coming away a winner, the various house percentages, the subtle devices use to lure players to the tables—and keep them there. Ironically, the gambling equipment is possibly the only thing in Las Vegas that is really on the level."

Coming to the part which discusses Barry Goldwater, on page 46, the authors have to say: "In Phoenix, the reform movement had collapsed and Gus Greenbaum (a former Al Capone lieutenant) was back doing business at the same old stand. One of Greenbaum's close friends of many years was Barry Goldwater (nee Goldwasser). Goldwater was a Phoenix councilman from 1949 to 192. Then in '52 he ran for the U.S. Senate and was elected by a one-per-cent majority.

"The junior senator from Arizona, who is the most popular rich man's candidate since John Adams, is actually a poor man who lives the life of a rich man in every sense and dimension. (As comedian Mort Sahl remarked: 'Goldwater is Jewish and an Episcopalian—I admire a man who tries to better himself.') Coming from a small western state, Goldwater has traveled a long way in eleven short years. As the rich man's foremost representative, it is not strange, then, to find the Senator opposed to every social and humanitarian program in this country. He is violently against Social Security, the graduated income tax, federal aid to education, public power, TVA, the closed shop, agricultural price supports, public housing, urban renewal, medical care to the aged, and economic aid to foreign countries. And finally, but still very much in character, he is opposed to enforced segregation. In fact, Barry Goldwater is opposed to everything except personal wealth and power.

Born the son of a shopkeeper, Goldwater allegedly married a wealthy woman, but is prompt to protest that he does not touch her money for Senate business. His Senate salary is $22,500 a year, and dividends from the family emporium in Phoenix net him another $15,000 a year. This $37,500 is not enough, Goldwater claims, and must be implemented by another $10,000 which he receives by gradually liquidating his life insurance. Since he has been a senator for eleven years, it can only be assumed that his life policies must be large indeed.

"Along the Strip in Las Vegas, Barry Goldwater is known by the wags and older show girls as a real "swinger, Robert ("Bobby") is a Gold Card holder and one of the "high rollers." Bobby still gambles regularmly in Las Vegas but the Senator, since Greenbaum's death and his own personal "high hopes," has steered clear of the town except for brief quiet visits.

"In the old days, when Gus was Mayor of Paradise, Barry Goldwater was a frequent visitor, occupying plush suites, first at the Flamingo and then later (when Gus changed his operation) at the Riviera. Some of the Senator's speeches were written in Las Vegas. The authors know of at least one occasion, in 1955, when Greenbaum's ghost writer helped the Senator with one of his speeches." Willie Bioff, the convicted pandered, extortionist, and celebrated stoolie, indicted and sentenced in 1941 in New York City for violation of the federal anti-racketeering statute, was another of Barry Goldwater's bosom pals, the book reveals. After Greenbaum was murdered, the funeral was attended by three hundred mourners, including Senator Barry Goldwater.

The only subject not mentioned in "The Green Felt Jungle" is the fact that actually about 95 per cent of the "tourists" who visit Las Vegas and Reno are there only for the purpose of having fun, each in his own way. Trippers from California who frequently or occasionally visit the gambling joints, do so with their eyes fully open to the fact that they may not win, but they just love to spend their money at the various forms of gambling, as a sort of release from the tensions of their prosaic lives at home and on their jobs.

AT THE GRAVE OF JUNIPERO SERRA

Cliff swallows in their mudnests on the tower
Strike the right note of gentility, humming above
The grave from which his spirit, like a wave,
Travels onward on the world, though losing power.
A purely local glory, but where they prize
His story, his name stamped upon the land,
The very sigil and the brand of love.
For he was conquistador immaculate of taint,
Who placed himself between the soldier's sword
And the innocence of aborigines,
Who wooed them from the wild to civil things,
Whose hand upon their heads was light as swallow's wings,
Who in their harmony attained his live reward,
Who, gentle in his grave, awaits the name of saint.

When green rains come,
The January springtime
Blooms violets and hyacinths.
Each leftover winter rose
Is cut
As gardeners prune its bush
For April buds.
In May and June
A fog-made curtain drops
An intermission time
Preceding dazzling summer plays.
Behind the scenes the sun receives
Uncommon polishing,
And rains are stored away again
In clouds
Marked "January Spring."

EVENING IN THE FOOTHILLS

The long cool shadow of afternoon is wedded now to starlight,
the boisterous wind of four o'clock
no louder now than a sigh of happiness.

Then suddenly a coyote yaps for down the canyon road and neighborhood dogs are caught up in wildness.
Their barking ricochets from the mountain wall excited rompings drumbeat across backyards then finally are still.

The villagers in their beds turn toward sleep.

SAND CASTLES

Such castles grow from childish hands
As only summer understands
Turning her hour-glass of sands
From mid-night to mid-day.

Oh summer do not melt away — as castles do
Oh summer stay !

Salt water fills the tiny moats
As rushing laughter swells the throats
Of children, sailing paper boats,
So fragile in their play.

Oh summer do not melt away—as castles do—
Oh summer stay !

HUMMING BIRDS

A moss-lined nest, two tiny eggs,
Yet out of it there came
Fleet wings that vibrate to a blur
And throats a flash of flame.

Threatened with toppling during recent rains, this small house on Mission just north of Eighth, is anxiously examined by the occupant, plumber James Marquardt, who perches cautiously on an undermined slab of sidewalk. The house perches at the edge of a deep excavation made for construction of new shops. In left background is shoring put up in an attempt to hold forms in place, but rain-soaked earth tilted them. Marquardt for a while planned to evacuate his home, but later resolved to stay put. Arthur McEwen photo.

brother an "abject idiot" for going to Las Vegas or Reno and spending, in company with his wife, a matter of a hundred dollars put aside just for this occasion. Yet this critical brother spends up to $1,000 or $1,500 yearly on deer hunting trips, using equipment costing many hundreds of dollars. He leaves his wife at home. He says he gets a kick out of shooting a deer, even if he has to travel to Canada to do it. Which of these brothers is the "abject idiot?" It is all a matter of opinion.

My personal contact with the "gambling hells" of Las Vegas and Reno, especially Reno,, assures me that a woman is safer in these places than she is on the streets of a lot of our California cities after dark. And if the owners of these gambling casinos are mobsters and racketeers, they at least have the good business sense to conduct decent places of entertainment, both gambling and theatrical. So, who cares who gets the profits? Let the "do-gooders" hoard their nickles and dimes. I'll get more fun sticking them in the slot machines.

Editor, Pine Cone:

May I make a suggestion to Carmel Town? Install a light, however small and inexpensive, outside the beach rest room. Last week I started on a walk along the beach with my husband, stumbled in the dark over the low stone border ledge, fell flat with my full weight on the stone paving, acquiring numerous cuts, bruises, skinnings, besides going into shock and shaking with chills all night at home from the surprise of it all. Even when the rest room is closed, a light bulb outside would be a big help. (I'm still laid up.) You would know to whom to make this suggestion.

Thank you. —M.S.M., Salinas.

Letters . . . to The Editor

Editor
Carmel Pine Cone

Since our ranch has been tossed around as a front page topic in recent editions we would like to clarify the flood situation in the mouth of the river area.

Our information is derived from actual experience, having farmed this property for abuot 40 years, and from information given us by Mrs. E. Oliver, prior owner, who died at the age of 84 in 1952.

Years ago, when this property and all the surrounding area was in its natural state, nobody cared about the Carmel River backing up behind a 10 to 12 foot sand bar and flooding the surrounding land, some of which now has considerable development on it, including a school. The reason for the flooding was primarily the lack of adequate equipment. This land, also being mostly pasture land, the surrounding hills gave ample pasture for the cattle during the flood stages, thus the floodable land was of no importance.

Today, conditions have drastically changed. Due to the influx of people causing an uptrend of land values which create a condition whereby in our locality land is becoming more precious every day. Commercialism has caused developers to encroach on the river rather than allow the river channel its natural full requirements. This permitted encroachment causes a flood danger.

If the sand bar is opened at the proper time, and every one respects the river as we do, instead of encroaching upon it, most of the problems would be solved. We have in the past spent many thousands of dollars for river clearance, sand bar openings and the removal of sand bars and other obstructions in the river bed itself.

If other property owners fronting on the river would carry out a definite program such as ours, flood problems would be almost entirely eliminated.

Very sincerely,
Bruno and Emilio Odello

Carmel Hospitality

The spirit of neighborliness, of old Carmel, was what came naturally in George Rockwood's Village Corner last Monday. Altho "Closed" signs were on the doors, the doors themselves were open and George served coffee and doughnuts to all who came. Those on their way to and from church services were warmed and cheered by this simple act of sympathy and hospitality.

Community Church of Monterey Peninsula Adopts Articles

This past Friday evening in the parish hall of All Saints' Episcopal Church in Carmel was the occasion for members of the new Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula to meet for adoption of its articles of government and election of its officers and staff for 1964.

Dr. Charles Pearson was chosen as the new president, who announced that charter members of the new church number two hundred, one hundred twenty- five of whom were present at the meeting. Selected for vice-president, secretary and treasurer are Mrs. Dudley Swim, Mrs. Walter Burde and Mr. A. G. Mott, respectively.

Activities of the new church are divided into seven departments, and selections of members to head these departments are Mrs. Charles McDaniel, director of Worship Services, Mrs. A. W. Elkington, director of Fellowship, Mr. Zoltan Vasvary, director of Education, Mrs. L. J. Fletcher, director of Missions, Mr. J. B. Pruitt, director of Membership, Colonel A. H. Black, director of Property Stewardship and Mr. A. G. Mott, director of Finance.

The officers and department directors, together with two members-at-large, Mrs. Julian von Meier and Mr. Leo J. Miller, form the Board of Governors, which is constituted the management-body of the church.

A fellowship hour followed the meeting with hostesses Miss Carmen Remini, Miss Maud Hook, Miss Zeala Broaddus, Dr. Paula Tobias, Mrs. Floyd Harber and Mrs. Zoltan Vasvary.

Until further notice Sunday worship services will be held in the Golden Bough Cinema Theatre, Carmel, at 11 a.m.

Scratches, Bumps, Bruises Old Stuff for Phil

Basic training at Fort Ord has little new to offer Private Philip M. Durbrow in the way of scratches, bruises and bumps.

Before entering the army, Durbrow received his lumps by falling off horses and fighting in battles as a movie stunt man. He doubled for film star Troy Donahue. Even before that he won honorable bumps as one of Carmel High High School's football stars.

A private, now in Headquarters Company, 1st Battalion, 1st Brigade, has appeared in such movies as "Mutiny on the Bounty," "Ben Hur" and "Parrish."

Falling off horses in movies doesn't come naturally for Phil. But staying on them does. Phil was trained to ride, from the first day he was big enough to manage a pony, by Richard Collins of Pebble Beach stables. He is an excellent horseman and trainer. In 1958 and '59 Phil participated in tryouts for the Olympic jumping teams and in 1960, while attending Stanford University, me made the Olympic Rowing Trials finals.
